Fail Fast but Fail Responsibly

If you are involved in the entrepreneurial world or follow self-improvement topics, you might be familiar with the term “fail fast.” As I understand it, the concept originated in the business world, but others have since adopted the idea to improve their lives or specific projects quickly. As the name implies, the goal is to try new ideas frequently with the expectation that parts, if not all, of the proposal will likely fail. However, this experimentation allows the individual or organization to identify improvements and innovate rapidly. Through this method, the innovator can hypothetically field new solutions more quickly and of a higher quality. The fail-fast model is fantastic as a baseline mindset. Whether we apply it to our day-to-day lives or a particular objective, a critical introspection with an eye to improvement is helpful. We should think creatively about how to do things better or more efficiently. In turn, this mindset helps us overcome apprehensions about trying new ideas to see what works and what does not. The fail-fast model turns the fear or embarrassment of failure on its head by recognizing that we are all still learning and improving. As the old saying goes, to try and fail is better than to have never tried at all. Life is too short to be stagnant! The thought process behind the fail-fast model cuts to the heart of American innovation, and I love to see that the long-standing tradition of experimentation and invention is continuing. However, I have one caveat, and that is some people abuse the fail-fast mantra as an excuse for irresponsible decision making. They argue, sometimes implicitly through their actions, that there is little need to think, plan, or problem solve when making decisions because the point is to just jump in and fail. Essentially, their plan is to simply start doing things and see what happens. Of course, few would admit that their approach is so simplistic, but their actions indicate at least a deficiency in critical thought and contingency planning. The counter-argument is that thought alone rarely produces measurable change, and that is correct. Innovation requires application, but experimentation is not antithetical to logical thinking and planning. On the contrary, experimentation should be logically directed and focused, not just a stab in the dark. That is why the scientific method requires a hypothesis before experimentation. Otherwise, how would the innovator know whether the experiment was useful or not? Certainly, some broad experiments have incidentally produced wonderful discoveries, such as the microwave and tortilla chips! But we are talking about targeted innovations as individuals or organizations. When preparing to try something new, it does not hurt to take a few moments to reflect on some critical questions. What do I expect to get out of the experiment? If the experiment is successful, will it actually solve my problem? What are the dangers or risks if something goes awry? What, if anything, is lost if the experiment fails? How will success or failure affect my team? The last question is perhaps the most important. While pursuing a fail-fast approach, have I considered the risk of burnout for my people? What about morale? How am I framing the risk-reward calculus for them? In summary, the fail-fast model is a helpful way to approach growth, but it does not relieve us of the obligation to think. We should plan and prepare the best we can before the trial, and then if things do not go according to plan, we must identify the root causes, figure out solutions, and then move forward. It is good to fail fast, but it is better to fail fast responsibly.

Maggie Buurma - Maggie is a sophomore captain on the junior varsity softball team. She spends most of her time behind the plate and is one of the strongest hitters in the line-up. Maggie brings strong leadership skills to the team, as well as being the anchor to the team.

Grace Nelson - Grace is also a sophomore captain. She is one of the two starting pitchers for the Lady Glads. Grace is also considered a utility player and can fill in many defensive positions. Her work ethic, leadership skills, and positive attitude make it easy to put her anywhere on the field.

Valerie Curd - Val is the last sophomore captain. She gives us steady defensive effort at second base and is a vocal leader on the field. Val currently leads the team with the highest batting average. She is a perfect example of putting in her time as a freshman and it paying off for the team and herself during her sophomore year.

All three of these girls will be sorely missed next year. They are top notch kids who work hard and do things the right way. Thank you for being positive role models and leaving a lasting impression on our program.

Every week through the season two Fowlerville H.S. athletes will be saluted for their efforts. Athletes will be selected by the coaching staff and Athletic Dept. For that "Winning Deal" on a new or used car or truck, see Dick Scott Motor Mall.

Coalition formed to advocate for local control over land-use projects

Residents from across the state of Michigan have come together to form the coalition Our Home, Our Voice Inc – whose sole mission is to maintain local control of land use projects.

“We are committed to standing up and raising our voices to protect our communities from special interests trying to strip away local control,” said spokesperson Norm Stephens of Deerfield in Lenawee County. “Each of our communities in Michigan are diverse and unique, this is why we believe decisions need to be left to local community leaders.”

Stephens said that Our Home, Our Voice Inc. is a grassroots coalition of county and township officials and community organizers throughout Michigan, “advocating to maintain local control of land use by promoting reasonable regulation in our widely diverse communities,” adding that “They believe an important tool for protecting our home from special interests is the continued ability to enact and maintain local land use regulation.”

Issues the coalition are advocating for local control include short-term rentals, wind farms, solar farms and gravel pits.

“Our Home, Our Voice Inc. is committed to protecting neighborhoods across Michigan from special interests trying to take away local control,” Stephens said.

—Area Deaths—

Roy Edward Lynn

Roy Edward Lynn of Fowlerville passed away peacefully on Tuesday, April 4, 2023. He was 74 years old.

Roy was born in Lansing, Michigan on March 5, 1949, to Robert and Vera Fay (Rhodes) Lynn. He graduated from Fowlerville High School and made his career in the trucking industry before working his way up to Vice President of Sales at Morgan Auto Paint, and then eventually founding his own trucking company, Royel Transport.

Roy was an avid golfer and enjoyed riding motorcycles, particularly his Heritage Springer; he was able to fulfill a lifelong dream of motorcycling through the Swiss Alps. He enjoyed spending many weekends among friends and family at Holiday Shores in Durand, where he was easy to spot tooling around the campground because of the bright yellow flames and shiny chrome wheels on his golf cart. His family and friends are comforted knowing that he is once again enjoying his regularly scheduled tee time with his brother-in-law, Jerry.

Roy faced adversity with optimism and humor. He loved to make people laugh, regardless of how tough the situation was. When asked what time he wanted to do something, his stock response was, “First thing in the morning, 11:00 am.” When hospital staff came to his room asking if he was Roy Lynn, he responded, “It depends, does Roy owe you money?”

In his retirement years, Roy enjoyed many breakfasts with friends and family at area restaurants, and as he told the various servers who became his friends too, each meal out was “the best meal I’ve ever had.”

One of the things Roy enjoyed most was bantering with his brother, Ralph. They had a lifelong debate about which trucks were best, Chevy or Dodge, and when Roy had to use his Chevy truck to pull Ralph’s Dodge out of a snowbank, Roy refused to do it until someone brought a camera to take a picture.

Roy was an expert in finding the joy in life and not taking things too seriously, and he reveled in being the fun dad and grandpa/pappy. It wasn’t uncommon for him to show up to Christmas with a ping pong table, a pinball machine, or some other outrageously fun item that was just as enjoyable for him as for the kids. In his later years, he enjoyed acquiring classic cars and had just picked up his latest toy, a 1989 Jaguar convertible, the week before his passing. He remained a kid at heart his entire life.

While Roy loved bantering with his family and friends, he had a heart of gold. He was the best at remembering birthdays, and was usually the first to call and sing “Happy Birthday.” Roy loved helping others and was known for his generosity to anyone in need, whether they were family, friends or a total stranger. He was instrumental in setting up a program at Fowlerville Schools to help pay for delinquent school lunch accounts, so no child would go without eating. He has helped friends pay for funeral expenses for their families, organized for wood to be delivered to pals, and purchased a handicapped scooter to be available if someone needed it.

Roy was preceded in death by his parents, his brothers, Dale and Ralph Lynn, his sister-in-law, Betsie Lynn and his brother-in-law, Jerry Scepka.

Roy is survived by his wife, Debbie Lynn; special friend, Carol Stowe; his daughters, Laura Lynn Canfield and Lisa Lynn; his granddaughters, Grace and Erin Canfield; his sisters, Joyce Scepka and Donna (Paul) Bauby; his sister-in-law, Janet Lynn; and many beloved nieces and nephews and grand nieces and nephews. He (and his restaurant leftovers) will be sorely missed by his canine sidekick, Bennie.

Upon meeting Carol, Roy acquired a “Bonus Family!” It started with her children, Gwen (Brian) Baughman, Shelly Emrick, and Casey (Dan) Elliott, and soon after, included their children, Megan (Jordan); Doug (Maddison); Rylee (Bryan) and their son, Bradley; Max (Amanda) and their daughter, Sophia; and Chandler (Reagan). One thing is for sure, we received the larger side of that “Bonus!”

Roy was remembered by family and friends at Herrmann Funeral Home with a visitation on Tuesday, April 11, from 4:00 pm - 7:00 pm and Wednesday, April 12 from 10:00 am - 11:00 am with a funeral service to follow at 11:00 am. Family and friends were asked to bring their best stories of Roy to share during the funeral. Following the funeral service, Roy was interred at Greenwood Cemetery, with a luncheon to celebrate his life held at the Williamston Eagles Club.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be made to the Humane Society.

Andrew Jerome Bergin (Jerry)

Andrew Jerome Bergin (Jerry), age 89, was a lifetime resident of Fowlerville and Howell, Michigan. He passed at home on April 5, 2023. Jerry was born May 16, 1933 and was the only child of Emmet and Dorothy Bergin of Fowlerville.

He served in the United States Navy and was a career machinist. Jerry was also a past commander and a member of the Fowlerville VFW Post 6464 since 1950.

He was preceded in death by his loving wife Joyce and is survived by his children Rory (Sandra) of Allen Park, Nicholas of Muskegon, Daniel of Howell, Maureen (Christopher) of Northville, Michael of Hamburg Township, nine grandchildren, one great grandchild, and his best friend, Daisy (his dog). He will be dearly missed by his family, friends, and members of the Fowlerville community.

Visitation took place at Herrmann Funeral Home in Fowlerville on Monday, April 10, 2023 from 4:00 pm - 7:00 pm and Tuesday, April 11, from 9:00 am - 10:00 am at St. Agnes Catholic Church. The funeral was then held at 10:00 am. Following the funeral, there was a committal at Mt. Olivet Cemetery with a luncheon afterwards at St. Agnes Catholic Church.

Arrangements entrusted to Herrmann Funeral Home. Online condolences may be expressed at pjherrmannfuneralhome.com.

Fun Part-Time Jobs Ideas for Retirees

Dear Savvy Senior,

As a 68-year-old retiree, I'm interested in finding a fun part-time job that can occupy some of my time and generate a little extra income. Can you write a column on low-stress part-time jobs that are popular among retirees?

Part-Time Retiree

Dear Retiree,

Working part-time in retirement can be a terrific way to occupy your time and earn some extra income. The key, however, is finding the right gig that's fun and satisfying for you. While there are literally hundreds of different part-time job opportunities out there for retirees, here are a few possibilities to explore.

Pet Services: If you love animals, consider pet sitting and/or dog walking. Pet sitters, who attend to a pet's needs when their owner is away, can earn $15 to $40 per visit. Dog walkers can make $10 to $30 for a 30-minute walk.

To find these jobs, advertise your services in veterinarians' offices or online at sites like Craigslist.org or Care.com. Or, if you'd rather work for an organization that offers these services, visit Rover.com.

Teach or Tutor: Depending on your expertise, you could substitute teach or tutor students privately on any number of subjects. Substitute teachers typically make between $75 and $125/day, while tutors can earn between $15 to $30 per hour.

To look for substitute teaching positions, contact your local school district to see if they are hiring and what qualifications they require. To advertise tutoring services, use websites like Wyzant.com and Tutor.com.

Or, if you have a bachelor, master or doctoral degree, inquire about adjunct teaching at a nearby college or university.

Drive: If you like to drive, you can get paid to drive others around using Uber or Lyft apps, or become a food delivery driver through Instacart or Uber Eats. Drivers make around $15 per hour.

Babysit: If you like kids, babysitting can be a fun way to put money in your pocket. Hourly rates vary by location ranging anywhere from $10 to $40 per hour. To find jobs or advertise your services, use sites like Care.com and Sittercity.com.

Tour guide: If you live near any historical sites or locations, national parks or museums (anywhere that attracts tourists), inquire about becoming a tour guide. This pays anywhere from $10 to $40/hour.

Write or edit: Many media, corporate and nonprofit websites are looking for freelancers to write, edit or design content for $20 to $60 per hour. To find these jobs try FreelanceWriting.com, FreelanceWritingGigs.com and Freelancer.com.

Consult: If you have a lot of valuable expertise in a particular area, offer your services as a consultant through a firm or on your own through freelancer sites like Upwork.

Michigan Governor’s Report

By Gretchen Whitmer

Last Monday, April 10th, marked the 100th day of my second term! With a productive majority in Lansing, we have gotten a lot done this year that will make a real difference in people’s lives.

I want to highlight some of the work we have done together to lower costs, create good-paying jobs, bring supply chains home, and make Michigan a state where everyone can envision their future. In 100 days, we have:

--Rolled back the retirement tax saving 500,000 families over $1,000 a year.

--Quintupled the Working Families Tax Credit, delivering average combined refunds of nearly $3,200 to 700,000 families. This credit directly benefits half the kids in Michigan, helping families pay bills and put food on the table.

--Secured record investments for our community, with a $800 million investment from GM and $3.5 billion that will create 2,500 good-paying jobs at the new Ford facility in Marshall.

--Repealed the dangerous 1931 abortion ban.

--Expanded the Elliott-Larsen Civil Rights Act, reaffirming legal protections for sexual orientation and expanding coverage to include gender identity and expression.

--Made record investments in affordable housing and community revitalization projects.

--Restored worker’s rights by ensuring that workers can bargain together for fair wages and benefits.

We’re moving fast and getting a lot done. In the next 100 days, we will work together to produce a balanced budget that delivers on many more kitchen-table issues from education and public safety to infrastructure and health. Let’s keep our foot on the accelerator!

Letter to the Editor

Take the Baton and Run

Did you know that the Tennessee State Government has brought three Democratic legislators forward to expel them? Their transgression...showing support for demonstrators demanding sensible gun restrictions after that same legislature loosened regulations following the massacre of 6 people in a Nashville school days earlier.

Most of those demonstrators were high school and college students who are fed up and angry with the peril they face every day in American schools and the refusal of the Republicans to do anything meaningful to stop the carnage. But there is a tidal wave about to descend upon those obstructing gun-sense legislation because guns are more important to them than people and they fear losing their jobs if they don’t march in step with the NRA.

According to a February 2023 Gallup Poll, 63% of Americans are dissatisfied with U.S. gun laws. Students are organizing funding and leading protests demanding to be heard. They are arm-in-arm with parents and grandparents and they WILL be voting in 2024. Republicans saw voters reject their restrictive and antiquated policies last year and there were more students voting than in previous years. We are watching students organize like kids did in the 70s against the Vietnam War and the result of those concerted efforts? The war ended.

So, students of this era, take the baton that is passed to you and run with it. Vote OUT those who oppose legislation to get assault weapons off the streets and out of the hands of disturbed people! Lana Theis, Ann Bollin, and Bob Bezotte, you have voted against every attempt to tighten our gun laws because you think that you are politically safe in this county. So did Mike Bishop.

HOPE

By Susan Kretchman

Hope:
From Greek elpis = “favorable and confident expectation”
In last week’s column, I wrote on the topic of “Suddenly”, recalling how that word when used in a storyline caused me to become excited for what would happen next in a cleverly written plot that held my attention for the duration of reading.
I’m not a child any more and while I still enjoy a good surprise, my focus has shifted to holding onto hope. Why? Because when I look past the boundaries of my loving and secure home, I am sensitive and aware of the chaos taking place in our nation, our world, and even within the limits of the small community that I have called home for 24 years. I admit that I’m finding it difficult not to get caught up in the anxiousness and worry brought about by the seemingly endless reports of attacks against people (big or small) or the moral decline in the lives of individuals who are worthy of a headline in a daily or weekly newspaper. It seems that I can’t turn on the television and not be bombarded with yet ‘another’ act of evil or indiscretion.
So, what do you do when you hear and read the news coming across the waves? Do you react or respond in any manner? My response is twofold. 1) I am aware that my prayer list needs to grow longer and 2) I need to hang onto ‘hope’ with great fervency. If I don’t, my mind can slip down the slippery slope of despair which leads to an abiding fear and robs me of my confidence and trust that everything in my ‘world’ is okay.

Another aspect of losing hope is daydreaming the ‘what ifs’ of the future that are beyond my control such as the economy, safety in my home and in our nation, and abroad, etc. For me, giving permission to the wrong daydreams is an invitation to feed my despair rather than taking action to nurture the hope and peace that I desire.
My daydreams also take me back to the little girl who grew up in a home with very loving parents that made me feel safe. I’m also able to conjure memories from those years that formed my ability to feel loved and secure and even believe that my dad was some kind of superhero who could protect me from anything. Those young years of childhood are a distant memory now which have yielded to adulthood making it my turn now to take ownership of my own sense of protection.
To find that level of secure protection, I chose to embrace my Christian faith as the solid rock that was once my earthly father’s role. In other words, I’ve exchanged my trust in a father to that of a Father. I’m grateful for a father who instructed me in the knowledge, wisdom, and promises of my Heavenly Father. Thankful is my heart that also has sweet, precious memories of a mother who was a prayer warrior in her own right as well. Foundations of early instruction in the ways of the Lord built strong walls of faith in my inner spirit that rise up against the sadness and unexplained choices of others that create and lead to destruction all around my otherwise ‘normal’ world.

In the course of today, all kinds of people will be making choices and decisions. Many of those choices will be rooted in fear, speculation, worry, greed, jealousy, manipulation, pride, evil....the list is endless. What will I choose today? What will you choose today? As I choose I know this: I may not be on the front lines of influence, however, this will not stop me from choosing hope.
As today unfolds, followed by numerous tomorrows to come, I am clinging to hope, doing so with full confidence that my Heavenly Father, who sees all and knows all, is watching over me; a Father who possesses a strong arm of protection that is not too short to grab me, reel me away from thoughts of despair and return me to my circle of hope.

Recycle Livingston holds ground-breaking ceremony for new building

By Steve Horton

Recycle Livingston held a ground-breaking ceremony for its new building last Monday, April 10th. The non-profit organization operates a drop-off center for recyclable items at 170 Catrell Drive in Howell and will be using the facility for offices and as a baling center.

Officials from the City of Howell and Recycle Livingston were on hand for the event as were Dr. Thomas Kellogg and Sarah Tottingham from the Edward & June Kellogg Family Foundation which is helping fund part of the construction cost.

In appreciation for this assistance, the building will be called the Kellogg Environmental Center while the overall facility will continued to be called Recycle Livingston.

Planning on the building began five years ago, but because of some delays, including the COVID pandemic, site work did not begin until earlier this spring.

“We’re finally getting on our project,” said Julie Cribley, executive director of Recycle Livingston. “Many thanks to the Kellogg Family Foundation for all the support that they have given us, as well as the City of Howell who has been a faithful partner of our organization.

“We are so grateful for all of the help we have had because this has been building on the efforts of many volunteers,” she said, noting that “We have really been looking forward to this moment.”

In a brief comment, Dr. Kellogg said that “We’re just happy it’s finally here and are super excited about it.”

Tottingham, who is the executive director of the Foundation and a board member, described the project “as a great thing for the city,” adding “We’re so glad that we could be part of it and to help grow this into something that we can all use and that will help future generations.”

The total cost of the construction is tabbed at around $750,000. A grant obtained from the Michigan Dept. of Environment, Great Lakes and Energy will cover $463,684.80 of the costs, while the Kellogg Foundation is contributing $184,000. The remaining expense will be paid for by Recycle Livingston.

Cribley, who has been the executive director for the past eight years, said that the Foundation supplied the necessary matching money that enabled the organization to obtain the Officials from the City of Howell, Recycle Livingston, and the Kellogg Family Foundation were on hand for the groundbreaking of a new building for the drop-off center.

Breaking ground for the new office-baling center were, from left, John Boris, a member of the board of directors for Recycle Livingston; Sarah Tottingham, the executive director and a trustee with the Foundation; Dr. Thomas Kellogg of the Kellogg Family Foundation; Jan Lobur, Mayor Pro Temp of the City of Howell; Julie Cribley, executive director of Recycle Livingston; and Bob Ellis, Mayor of the City of Howell.

She noted that Recycle Livingston has purchased a baler which will be housed in the building and that there is room for three more.

“This will allow us to sell our recycled items directly to the customer rather than having it done by a middleman and paying that extra expense,” she noted. “We have been using compactors and then shipping these compressed items to another facility to be baled. We’re trying to get to the point where we can be totally independent and deal directly with the recyclers who want that material.”

Cribley said that Recycle Livingston began in 1970 and currently has a membership of 1,700 households. She added that anyone from the public can use the facility and the service area goes beyond the county.

The City of Howell, which leases the property to the organization for a $1 a year, is acting as the fiduciary for the project. Construction is expected to be completed by the end of summer.

Michigan House Report

By Bob Bezotte,
50th District

As I sit down to write this update, it’s Thursday morning and the House is preparing to vote this afternoon on a package of bills to create extreme risk protection orders. The partisan plan, brought forward by the Democrat majority, creates a process that allows the government to seize weapons from any individual who others say is likely to injure themselves or another person with a firearm.

I have serious concerns about the overly broad process for obtaining an extreme risk protection order, also known as a “red flag” order, and plan to oppose this legislation.

The bills give courts broad discretion to confiscate firearms from mentally sound, law-abiding individuals based on very little evidence. These bills also provide no right to counsel for the defendant, and no right to a hearing before the court issues an order and a person’s guns are seized.

I also think it’s important for us to take a step back and think about how dangerous these bills are for our local law enforcement officers.

When I was sheriff, the safety of my deputies was always top of mind. But no more so than when we had to send officers out to a rural area to knock on someone’s door and serve a warrant.

Just like warrants, serving extreme risk protection orders will put officers at risk.

This legislation calls upon officers to go knock on someone’s door and tell them to turn over the guns that the constitution tells them they have a right to own – without any evidence they have committed a crime and without any due process.

If the person doesn’t immediately relent and hand over their weapons, they can be arrested and charged with a misdemeanor. If an officer goes to make that arrest and the person resists in any way, they can be charged with a felony.

These “red flag” bills are not going to improve public safety. Enforcing the laws already on the books will.

***

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to reach out to my office at (517) 373-3906, or RobertBezotte@house.mi.gov. I am always happy to hear from my neighbors in our community.

Webberville Schools Sinking Fund on the May 2 ballot

Webberville Schools is proposing a 2.85 mill Sinking Fund Levy on the May 2, 2023 ballot. This fund would be used to fund ongoing maintenance, repairs and improvements. If approved, revenue will also be used to implement safety and security improvements as well as maintaining district technology.

The current sinking fund millage is 0.9728 mill. Webberville Schools is requesting an increase of 1.8772 mill. This means the average increase would be $10.95/month based on local average home taxable values.

The district has identified specific uses for these funds in three categories: immediate needs, anticipated needs and unforeseen needs. Ongoing information will be shared publicly on project approved and completed utilizing sinking fund revenues.

The following improvements are needed to school facilities: roofing systems, heating and cooling systems, middle school gym, parking lots, elementary building historical areas, playground drainage, flooring and septic systems. Technology improvements include: security camera system, digital clock and bell system, computer lab, server upgrades, technology infrastructure, technology devices. Improvements to safety include: building entries, lighting, lock/key system, security cameras, classroom security, public announcement and alarm systems, emergency radio system and fencing.

Community members are encouraged to contact Superintendent Andrew Smith at 517-521-3422 or email AnSmith@webbervilleschools.org for more information.

Slotkin Statement on Signing of Michigan Gun Violence Prevention Legislation

U.S. Rep. Elissa Slotkin (MI-07) attended Thursday's signing of gun violence prevention legislation at Michigan State University and released the following statement: "Today's signing is a historic moment for Michigan, marking the most significant statewide action on gun violence in decades — and this from a state where many of us grew up with guns. It's an incredible victory, and I'm so proud of the Michigan Legislature, the student advocates and parent groups, and especially the Oxford and MSU families, who worked so hard to make this happen. It's how government is supposed to work, and sets the standard for the entire country on how to respond with action in the face of a tragedy," said Slotkin. "The bills signed into law today are proof that we don't need to accept the false choice between gun ownership and gun safety for our kids. Drawn directly from the shootings at Michigan State University and Oxford High School, this legislation will require universal background checks and safe storage of firearms — landmark, common sense provisions that will undoubtedly save lives. I was joined today by families from MSU and Oxford, places I represented, where I saw firsthand how gun violence can rip a hole in the heart of a community. I was thinking of them, and the many students, teachers, and families that I've met since those tragedies. Today's victory is for them and all of the Michiganders whose lives have been upended by the gun violence epidemic, and I'm looking forward to the additional gun violence prevention legislation on the way." Drawn directly from the shootings at Michigan State University and Oxford High School, the package of legislation will require universal background checks for gun purchases and safe storage of firearms.

LCSO Deputy who was not answering status checks from dispatch. The Deputy was secure and was unable to get signal and answer dispatch.

Officer McMahon and myself were requested to check an address in the Village for a suspect vehicle that was involved in a chase that occurred in Shiawassee County. The suspect vehicle was not located and the information was passed onto Shiawassee County.

Additional Information:

FPD attended an online demonstration for a software that can assist members of FPD track down individuals involved in crimes. This will greatly increase us in locating people and making our investigations go quicker and more smoothly. We are always looking for ways to better serve our community and to solve crimes and deter future crimes.

I attended AOB (Advocacy Oversight Board) and LPT (Local Planning Team). This is a monthly meeting where Police, Fire, EMS, Dispatch, Emergency Mgt, all come together and discuss first responder related discussions, training, and issues/concerns in our related fields.

Hello Spring! With this being said, please take extra caution and be vigilant and watch out for motorcycles and bike riders on the roads. Kids are also out playing enjoying this amazing weather. We have seen an uptick in accidents this time of year and a lot of the cases are involving negligent drivers who are driving too fast, passing in no passing zones, and excessive speeds, or just not paying attention. Lets have a great spring and enjoy this much needed sun and warmer weather.

Senior Spotlight—Garrett Ellsworth-

By Jazmyne Holly & Maggie Monroe

Garrett Ellsworth is the son of James and Melinda Ellsworth and is an only child who currently lives with his father.

Ellsworth was involved with wrestling his freshman year. "My favorite memory from high school is winning a wrestling match," he said. However, he injured his shoulder and was unable to wrestle the rest of the season. That shoulder injury, he said, was the hardest part of his time in high school. While Ellsworth did physical therapy and worked out to help fix his shoulder, he unfortunately could not wrestle again.

"Garrett is a helper who gets interested in things then he helps people in that thing he is interested in," said Miss Goodman. "Garrett's personality to help those who need it is probably the thing that stands out the most to me. My favorite memory of Garrett is seeing him help some middle schooler's with their work."

Ellsworth does not plan on going to college. Instead he plans on getting a job as some sort of influencer and just living the rest of his life doing that job until he retires. Ellsworth's favorite time in high school has been his current senior year. "I'm doing more stuff and I am having fun with friends, I'm also seeing my teachers for the last time as a student," he said.

"I believe in 10 years Garrett will be stable in life, have a stable job, and a good living space. Hopefully we will still be friends and we hang out a lot," his friend Michael Fraley said. "Garrett is a nice kid, he is kind, and we have a lot in common," Fraley said. The two of them met in second grade when Ellsworth protected Fraley from someone bullying him, which is where their friendship started. "One thing I wish to tell Garrett is to be strong, always be yourself and be proud of who you are, always believe you can accomplish things even if you don't think you can," said Fraley.

If Ellsworth had any parting advice for underclassmen, it would be to always do your work, don't skip classes and school, otherwise it will come back to haunt you your senior year.

Fowlerville High School Alumni Association holding 129th annual gathering on Saturday, June 10th

Plans are now in place for the 129th Fowlerville High School Alumni Banquet & Gathering to be held Saturday, June 10, at FOWLERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL. The social hour begins about 4pm. Pictures will be taken starting at 5pm, followed by the banquet at 6pm in the high school cafeteria.
A short program recognizing "honored classes" will take place after the meal.

COVID-19 forced the cancellation of the annual banquet in 2020. The next two years, an informal gathering was held at the Fowlerville Fairgrounds Finlan Gazebo.

"It's great to be home! - back at FHS," said Judy Recker, Alumni president.

Changes in services and personnel at the schools have forced the organization to hire an outside caterer & incur additional expenses. To insure that all the new expenses are covered, the ticket price has been set at $25. Tickets will go on sale the first of May at a local business (to be announced).
More details to follow. Please save the date, Saturday, June 10 & plan to attend FHS ALUMNI - 2023.

Classes with questions should contact Cindy Ruttman Krebs at 517-375-3014. Cindy will have details on reserv- ing rooms at FHS and other information pertinent to the program.

Scholarship donations continue to be accepted and can be sent to Box 446, Fowlerville, MI 48836.

A seaplane lands on Isle Royale, the country's fifth least-visited national park.
Jim Peaco, National Park Service

Isle Royale’s low visitor numbers help preserve natural beauty

By Mogan Womack
Capital News Service

Isle Royale National Park was one of the least-visited U.S. national parks in 2022, with only 25,454 recreational visitors. It's the 5th least-visited park in the country. But some people, like Visit Keweenaw Executive Director Brad Barnett, celebrate this sparsity of attention.

“For those that really want to connect with nature and do that in an intimate way, Isle Royale National Park is the place to do that,” Barnett said.

The park, a remote archipelago in Lake Superior, has a short season and is open from mid-April to the end of October, and it’s only accessible through ferry, boat and seaplane.

Barnett said locals make a “pilgrimage” to explore Isle Royale annually to reconnect with nature, but for tourists, visiting is a “once-in-a-lifetime opportunity” to experience the preserved ecosystem’s 165 miles of trail.

While it is one of the least-visited national parks, Barnett said it has the highest rate of return.

“Once you get to Isle Royale, you keep coming back,” Barnett said. “That’s a testament to experiencing the way the national park system has preserved this special place in Lake Superior.”

Isle Royale’s busiest year was 1987, when the National Parks Service recorded 31,760 visitors. With the exception of 2020, when COVID-19 struck, its numbers have been relatively consistent since 2016, between about 24,000 to 28,000 visitors.

The only other Great Lakes region park on the least-visited list is Minnesota’s Voyageurs National Park in 14th place. The overall least-visited one is National Park of American Samoa.

Jim DuFresne, a Clarkston-based author of a popular Isle Royale guidebook, said the cost of travel to get there and limited season might be a reason for the low number.

His book, “Isle Royale National Park: Foot Trails & Water

Routes,” has been in publication for 40 years and is marketed toward backcountry hikers.

While some people stay in the lodges, he said one of the best ways to see the island is by camping and kayaking.

DuFresne said what makes Isle Royale so unusual is that its visitors stay for long periods. Rather than an overnight backpacking trip, people tend to hike and camp for a whole week.

“They fall in love with getting away and simplifying their life to where all you need is in your backpack,” DuFresne said.

He said the best time to visit and see wildlife, like wolves and moose, is when the trails are clear of tourists in late August or early September.

“To have that simplicity and disconnect yourself from the world for a handful of days is a really incredible experience,” DuFresne said. “It’s very refreshing, even spiritually refreshing.”

After visitors see “pristine” Lake Superior by way of the park, DuFresne said they will have a changed perspective on preserving Great Lakes water quality and preventing climate change.

“In order to preserve that, we need to get people to experience it,” DuFresne said.

Museum planned to remember victims of 1927 Bath School bombing

By Amalia Medina
Capital News Service

A new museum to memorialize a school bombing is slated for completion by the 100th anniversary of the tragedy in 2027.

The May 18, 1927, bombing of the Bath Consolidated School by disgruntled school board member Andre Kehoe remains America’s deadliest school mass murder.

Thirty-eight elementary children and six adults died, and 58 others were injured.

Kehoe, who had placed timed explosives in the building, murdered his wife and firebombed their farm. He died outside the school when he set off explosives hidden in his truck.

Now, 96 years later, residents are working to keep the memory of the victims alive through a new Bath School Museum northeast of Lansing in Bath Township, Clinton County.

The current museum is in the middle school auditorium lobby and contains school memorabilia from more than a century ago.

The Bath School Museum Committee has proposed building a larger and more accessible museum that also would provide a space for the last remaining part of the original 1922 building – the cupola, which survived the explosions.

In 1975, the original building was torn down because it was in poor condition.

The grounds were turned into the James Couzens Memorial Park, where the cupola is now displayed alongside the memorial and marker commemorating the “Bath School Disaster.”

The cupola has been outdoors for more than a century, and the committee decided to move it indoors to prevent deterioration.

The cupola won’t have to move far, though, since the new museum will be on the edge of the park grounds.

The museum planning comes amid an escalating number of mass shootings across the country. They include the November 2021 shooting at Oxford High School, Oakland County, where a 15-year-old student with a 9 mm semi-automatic handgun murdered four students and injured seven people, including a teacher.

According to committee member Chris Hagerman, Bath residents have shown support for building the museum on the site.

“That’s where the disaster happened, and it’s only fitting to bring it back there,” Hagerman said.

“Some of the older folks whose families have had either someone who was killed or survived the disaster always wanted a memorial in that park, more than just the cupola,” he said.

“Almost everybody who’s talked to us has said how much they’d appreciate having a museum in the park,” Hagerman said.

The museum will cover all of Bath’s school history but emphasize the disaster and its effects, which are felt by township residents today, said Hagerman, whose maternal grandfather, Raymond Eschtruth, survived the attack as a child.

His mother, Susan Hagerman, is president of the committee. Susan Hagerman grew up knowing something happened, but her dad never talked about it. Because he had been buried alive in the explosion, loud noises upset him and he cried when the topic of the disaster was brought up, she said. His sisters had similar reactions.

“Back then, nobody talked about what happened,” Susan Hagerman said. “Back then, they didn’t have support groups. They didn’t have counselors. Everybody kept everything to themselves. So for the most part, everybody — survivors, family members — they knew what happened, but nobody really talked about it.”

But that changed in the 1970s when the principal gave a presentation about the explosion to mark its 50th anniversary. The presentation included photos from the disaster.

“I sat there and watched that with my dad, and it was like I was right there with them,” Susan Hagerman said. “It was just mind-blowing. But after that point, it seemed like the survivors started opening up more.”

As more people started talking about their experiences, the event’s effect on the community became evident, Susan Hagerman said.

The community always had a rural, small-town environment, she said, and right after the disaster, residents grew even closer.

They were forced to move on quickly, she said.

“After the explosion, there wasn’t a lot of time to grieve because they still had to feed their family,” she said. “They still had to take care of their farm, and take care of animals, besides burying their children.

“Everybody pulled together. People that lost children in the explosion went to funerals of their friends that lost children in the explosion.”

She said the new museum will continue to recognize the event and memorialize the victims.

“It was horrific, but it’s part of our past,” she said.

“It’s important to let younger people know about it because it’s part of our history. There’s still many survivor families in the community. Not only the explosion — it’s important to know the history of our school because that’s part of our past too.” Susan Hagerman said.

Chris Hagerman said there’s plenty of fundraising to do, but he’s confident the community will support the endeavor.

According to committee member Kate Hagerman, Chris Hagerman’s wife, the community response has been overwhelmingly positive.

She said the committee also plans to pursue grants and endowments.

The museum could include a community center with a venue or event space, especially for class reunions.

By creating the museum and community space, Kate Hagerman said the committee hopes residents can tell their stories and continue to lean on each other.

“I think almost all of us have lived in Bath for the majority of our lives or went to school here,” she said. “We’re all really invested and connected. It’s really close to all of our hearts, to make sure that this story is told in the right way going forward.”
