Livingston County Veterans Treatment Court honors mentor at upcoming appreciation ceremony

On Wednesday, Sept. 23, mentors who support the Livingston County Veterans Treatment Court will be honored at an appreciation ceremony that the public is welcome to attend.

There are currently 18 active veteran mentors who are veterans themselves and volunteer their time to act as coaches, guides, role models, advocates, and support systems for each participant.

“For over a decade, the Livingston County Veterans Treatment Court has played a critical role in providing justice-involved veterans with a second chance at living healthy, productive lives in our community. The overwhelming success of the Veterans Court is due in large part to the tireless efforts of our Veteran Mentors – these volunteers tirelessly support their fellow veterans, and it is my privilege to honor them during our Veteran Mentor Appreciation Ceremony,” said Honorable Susan N. Murphy, presiding judge of the Livingston County Veterans Treatment Court.

The ceremony will be held at the Livingston County Judicial Center (204 S. Highlander Way, Howell) in Judge Murphy’s Courtroom at 2:30 p.m. Anyone interested in attending is asked to RSVP to Sara Applegate sapplegate@livgov.com.

More information about the Veterans Treatment Court:

A Veterans Treatment Court (VTC) is a treatment-based problem-solving court that serves justice-involved veterans as opposed to business as usual: having all veterans appear before random judges who may or may not have an understanding of their unique experiences and issues.

Because the Veterans Treatment Court Judge, Judge Murphy, handles numerous veterans’ cases and is supported by a strong, interdisciplinary team, Judge Murphy is in a much better position to exercise discretion and effectively respond than a Judge who only occasionally hears a case involving a veteran defendant.

The Veterans Treatment Court Team better understands the issues that a veteran may be struggling with, such as substance addiction, PTSD, traumatic brain injury, or military sexual trauma. In addition, the VTC Team is also more familiar with the Veterans Health Administration, Veterans Benefit Administration, State Department of Veterans Affairs, veterans service organizations, and volunteer veteran mentors and how they can all assist veteran defendants.

Remembering Earl Scobey-Jacobs
April 16, 2014-September 3, 2026
Earl Scobey-Jacobs, age 13, passed away peacefully at his home in Hastings, with his beloved “grammie” by his side.

Earl was born in Hastings MI on April 16, 2014. Out of eight pups in the litter, his dad Kody Scobey had first pick and chose him. When he was 11-years-old, Kody had vowed that the name of his “first born” would be Earl—girl or boy.” True to his word, this was the name he gave the new puppy. As it turned out, the name was perfect for him as he had such a kind, gentle, “old soul.”

Earl and his dad had many adventures in their short eight years together, before Kody’s passing. They traveled across the country and settled in Olympia, Washington for a year before returning to Hastings where they settled in with Earl’s “grammie” and Kody’s mother, Kris Jacobs.

He was fondly known in his neighborhood as “the one in charge of the neighborhood” where every neighbor knew and loved him. Every morning Earl would take the same walk through every neighbor’s yard, look around for squirrels, then return home for his snack.

He was a very proud “uncle” to his “nephew” Easton for the past two years. Whenever Easton was at his house, Earl took his babysitting duties very seriously and was always

Earl was his grammie’s whole world, and she reminded him several times a day that “He was her most favorite being in the entire universe” at which he would always lift his head proudly and wag his tail.

The past four years, Earl traveled with his Grammie to the “east side of the state” to deliver his Grandma Dawn and Grandpa Steve’s “Fowlerville News & Views” weekly newspapers to Howell, Fowlerville, and Webberville—a round trip that lasted eight-to-12 hours. He LIVED for delivery day and the opportunities to get out at his favorite spots along the way and always eager to meet new friends on the journey. He KNEW, once they were done with the deliveries, that they would go to the newspaper office where Grandma Dawn, without fail, would have a big bag of his favorite treats waiting at grammie’s desk. Then he rewarded himself with a peaceful two-hour nap as his grammie did her office work.

Earl is survived by his grammie Kris Jacobs of Hastings; aunt Jordan Thompson; nephew Easton Thompson; Aunt Jen & Uncle Chad Miller; Uncle Brad & Aunt Lindsay; and grandparents Steve & Dawn Horton and Ken & Patty Howe. He was preceded in death by his dad Kody Scobey.

“Thank you Earl for being my BEST FRIEND in the world. You were there for me in my darkest days when no one else was. The therapy I received through your unconditional love was unmeasurable. For THAT, I THANK YOU. We are all energy and energy never dies, it just changes form. Until we meet again in a better time and better place, rest easy my boy. Grammie loves and misses you more than anything.”-- Love Your Grammie

Fowlerville Varsity Football team falls to Williamston 10-7 in hard-fought defensive battle

By Bill Call

Off the field, players took part in Military Appreciation Night, a now annual event on the Fowlerville Varsity Football schedule. On the field, the Gladiators battled with neighboring rival Williamston in what turned out to be an outstanding defensive struggle that ended with Fowlerville losing a hard-fought game to the Hornets, 10-7.

What made the game even more of a nail-biter was that the Glads scored the go-ahead touchdown on a fourth-and-goal play that was nullified by a penalty and gave the ball back to Williamston.

The game started with the Gladiators kicking off to the Hornets. Williamston controlled the ball for the first five minutes of the game. At the 7:11 mark, the Hornets turned the ball over on downs at the Glads 26-yard line.

A nice run by #22 Ryder Kleinschmidt puts the ball down at the Glads 41-yard line. A short pass from Kellen Douglass to Connell Hardenbrook was good, putting the ball on the 49-yard line. The next play was a keeper by Douglass for a first down.

A Williamston penalty moved the ball fifteen yards closer to the Williamston goal line. Two plays later, a pass from Douglass to #2 Logan Demko makes another first down, but a holding penalty put the ball back to Williamston’s 26 -yard line. Another pass to Demko places the ball inside the 10-yard line where it is first and goal. The Hornets’ defense, however, stood strong and stopped the Gladiators on downs, taking the ball on their own nine-yard line. On the very next play they fumbled the ball, turning it back to the Glads, with Jacob Hodge recovering at Williamston’s 20-yard line. However, Fowlerville was unable to capitalize on the mistake and turned the ball over on downs at the 18 with just 12 seconds left in the first quarter.

Williamston controlled the ball for the first eight minutes of the second quarter. With halftime coming up in a little over four minutes, the Hornets were able to put the ball through the uprights on a field goal, taking a 3-0 lead. The first half ended with that score.

The start of the second half continued to be a defensive ball game, until there was 2:27 left in the quarter when Douglass was able to put the ball into the end zone for a Gladiator touchdown. The point after was good, making the score 7 for the Glads and 3 for the Hornets’.

Williamston controlled the ball for the remainder of the third quarter and into the fourth period when they scored a TD with 6:49 gone on the clock. The PAT was good, giving Williamston the lead 10 to 7.

The Gladiators received the ball on their own 35-yard line. With it being second down and seven yards for a first down, Douglass took the ball on a keeper to their own 49- yard line for a first down. Douglass handed the ball off to Kleinschmidt who advanced the ball to the Williamston thirty-five.

The Hornets were called for a sideline infraction, moving the ball to the 30-yard line and giving the Gladiators another first down. With 3:51 left in the game, Douglass handed off to Kleinschmidt who in turn ran the ball into the end zone for what appeared to be a Fowlerville go-ahead touchdown. But there was a flag on the play, bringing the ball back to the 38-yard line, making it fourth down with a yard to go for a first down. Douglass, on a keeper, gained five yards for the first down, keeping the drive alive. With 3:02 to go, Douglass’s pass was incomplete. Up next was Kleinschmidt who took the ball inside the ten-yard-line. With a first-and-goal, Douglass gained one yard to the nine. After another short gain by Kleinschmidt, the next play was a run by Jacob Hodge to the two-yard line.

With 53 seconds left and fourth-and-goal, Douglass ran the ball into end zone. But every flag in the stadium was in the air, and once again there was no touchdown. Williamston declined the penalty, giving them the ball on downs. They ran the clock out to win an incredibly good defensive game by both teams.

Fowlerville—now 1-2 for the season and 0-1 in the CAAC Red Division—traveled to Haslett this past Friday, Sept. 19, for a league game (past the newspaper deadline). The Glads will host Lansing Eastern next Friday, Sept. 25, in the school’s Homecoming game and another CAAC Red match-up.

Michigan DNR Fishing Tips—

Ways to target steelhead on rivers while in a boat this fall

If you decide to target steelhead on Michigan’s rivers while in a boat, there are two options you can turn to. Consider offering bait underneath a centerpin style reel. The line will come off smoothly, allowing for float-suspended baits to work long distances downstream, plus it offers drag-free drifts.

If you’re not confident on a centerpin style or you’re a novice angler, try a level-wind reel. It allows you to drop the float behind the boat and wait for the strike. It will take care of the hard work while reeling in your catch by guiding the line on properly.

Now is the perfect time to target steelhead! For more information, visit the Michigan.gov/FishID!

U.S. Congress Report

By Tom Barrett,
7th District, U.S. House of Representatives

Joins Effort to Increase Rural Access to Quality Health Care

Congressman Tom Barrett (MI-07) has joined Congressmen Pat Harrigan (NC-10) and Don Davis (NC-01) in introducing the Resources for Essential Access to Community Health (REACH) Act. This bipartisan legislation would incentivize health care professionals to serve rural areas and address critical workforce shortages.

“Too many of our rural communities don’t have enough doctors and nurses to provide essential care for the local residents who need it,” said Barrett. “Where you live should never be a barrier to accessing quality care. By providing an incentive to attract these professionals to our communities, our bipartisan REACH Act will make health care more affordable and accessible for families in rural mid-Michigan.”

Specifically, the REACH Act (H.R. 10440) would provide a tax credit of up to $10,000 for primary care physicians (including OB-GYNs), mental health professionals, nurses, and medical residents who work at least 900 hours per year in a rural area. The tax credit would decrease for individuals making more than $170,000.

Rural communities face especially severe shortages of medical professionals. Approximately 61% of federally designated Health Professional Shortage Areas are in rural communities, including Eaton and Shiawassee counties.

The legislation builds on the historic Rural Health Transformation Program, which Barrett and his colleagues passed into law last year to lower costs and expand access to health care in rural communities. Michigan will be receiving $117 million through the program, including $25 million announced this month to improve technology and internet infrastructure to help rural residents access quality health care.

George Thomas Kirkby

George Thomas Kirkby, 81, of Fowlerville, Michigan, passed away on September 11, 2026.

George was born June 2, 1945, in Lansing, Michigan, the son of Delphin and Susan Kirkby, and grew up in Lansing. He was a proud graduate of Michigan State University, where he earned his degree in Journalism, and he remained a Spartan through and through, rarely seen without a piece of MSU green and white in his wardrobe. He also proudly served his country in the United States Marine Corps during the Vietnam War.

On May 18, 1968, he married the love of his life, Sharron Coe, and the two shared 58 years of marriage together. In 1976, George and Sharron settled in Alanson, Michigan, where they made their home and raised their family for 43 years before moving to Fowlerville, Michigan, in 2024 to be closer to their daughter.

George built his career with Pepsi, where he was known and loved as “Midnight” for the way he treated everyone he met on his route — stopping to load groceries, push a cart to someone’s car, or simply lend a hand, no matter how long his day had already been. That same generosity carried through his retirement, which he filled with volunteer work for the Alanson Hillside Beautification project, the Alanson Library, and the Alanson Fire Department, as well as photographing and writing about special occasions throughout his community. He was also a proud member of the Marine Corps League and took great joy each year in helping with Toys for Tots.

An avid photographer, fisherman, and lover of the outdoors, George was happiest surrounded by his family. He spent countless hours reading and teaching his children and grandchildren to fish, skate on the lakes, cross-country ski, and snowshoe. His love of photography ran especially deep — he helped his daughter set up a darkroom in her high school and passed that same passion on to his son, Joel. He taught everything with patience and gave his time freely and often.

George was a gentle soul who spent his life making the people around him smile. He was the best husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, and friend anyone could ask for — always present, always up for a good conversation, and always ready to listen without judgment. Those who knew him simply called him “the nicest guy,” and no one who met him would have argued. He was, quite simply, one of a kind, and his family could not have asked for a better man to build their lives around.

George is survived by his wife of 58 years, Sharron (Coe) Kirkby; his daughter, Allison (Mike) Warren; his son, Joel (Lucy) Kirkby; his brother, David (Judy) Kirkby; his sister-in-law, Sherry Hurt (John); his grandchildren, Jamey Warren (Kelsee), Amanda Martin (Jesse), Bonnie Stice (Cole), and Arin Kirkby; his great-grandchildren, Chase, Ashlyn, Hayden, Miles, Sutton, and Lively; and many loving nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Delphin and Susan Kirkby; his brother, Ed Kirkby, and Ed’s wife, Barb; his sister, Sara; his daughter, Amanda; his granddaughter, Heather Stice; and several brothers- and sisters-in-law, each of whom held a special place in his heart.

George’s gathering of family and friends will be on Thursday, September 24th, 2026, from 12 PM to 3 PM at the American Legion Post 141 in Howell, Michigan. Funeral honors will begin at 12 PM. Memorial contributions are suggested to St. Jude’s Children’s Research Hospital. Please leave a message of comfort for George’s family at 1-877-231-7900, or sign his guestbook at www.borekjennings.com.

You Never Know

By Susan Kretchman

“I love you.”

Meet Betty. She’s a woman in her 50s who had a deep love for Christ and a passion to mentor young people. When I first met her she was serving as a volunteer for Teen Challenge in Saginaw. Young men who had fallen into addictions and numerous encounters with the judicial system could enter their program for a last chance approach to finally be free from whatever chains were holding them back from being clean and productive members of society. The house wasn’t large, home to less than a dozen at a time, and the ministry’s rules kept everyone under one roof with strict guidelines for daily living. Everything that was taught or activities to rebuild broken emotions and bodies centered on the Gospel.

It was game night. Probably a Friday. The boys were scattered around the living room playing a variety of board games. Betty was there to help serve snacks and supervise. She loved taking on the role of “mom” or “grandmother” to these young men and getting to know them through conversations was important to her time with them every week. It didn’t take her long to get acquainted with the boys’ personalities and how to communicate on their level. Except for John.

No matter how hard Betty tried to connect with John she often failed. He wasn’t like the others. Her corny jokes or inquiries about his week didn’t penetrate his sameness and cold exterior. She felt as though she was letting John down. That’s when she turned to God and prayed “let me reach John, Lord. What can I do?”

Not knowing if God had been silent to answer her prayer and still feeling desperate on a usual Friday evening of games, as she scurried past John heading to the kitchen, she tapped his shoulder and whispered softly “I love you.”

John didn’t flinch. His posture didn’t change from being touched. He remained sullen and non-emotional after the brief encounter. Betty went about her duties serving snacks. At the end of her “shift” she went home.

I met Betty when I was new in my own faith walk. Sadly, I don’t recall all the details of our meeting but I recall it was centered around Teen Challenge and an invitation from a co-worker to learn about their ministry. It was during one of our times together that Betty relayed the story about John.

Betty’s story with John didn’t end when she left her shift the evening she spoke those tender words “I love you”. John finished out his time at Teen Challenge, graduated and reentered life to find a career. As with most of the boys, she’d never hear from or see them again.

Until one evening, several years later, Betty was home, sitting and reading. That’s when the telephone rang.

“Hello?”

“Betty?”

“Yes, this is Betty.”

“Hi, Betty. I don’t know if you’ll remember me. It’s John. From Teen Challenge.”

Betty searched her memories. John? It was easy to remember the boys who were vivacious and easy. Was John one of those?

“It’s okay if you don’t remember me,” the voice said quietly. “I remember you. And I’ve never forgotten the night you told me you ‘loved me’.

Now it was coming back to Betty. John. The John who she thought she had failed. The John who had a hard time being happy or capable of carrying on any form of conversation. Was this the John she had often worried about?

“Betty, I want you to know I’m doing great. I’m married and I have a family. And, Betty? You want to know something? I’m a pastor. And Betty? There’s something else. Before I met you no one had ever told me they loved me. But you did. I’ve never forgotten that or you. So, Betty? I just wanted you to know, ok?”

Betty hung up the receiver and allowed herself to be swallowed up by quiet and awe which now filled her living room. Tears streamed down her face as she recounted her experience with me. It had been several years between John’s phone call and making our acquaintance. She could recall every detail with beautiful clarity. She may have forgotten about John for awhile but God’s providence reconnected them, giving her another testimony to stand in the test of time.

Why did Betty share this story with me and others who were making a commitment to join a prayer group for Teen Challenge in Saginaw? Because, in her own words, “don’t ever underestimate the smallest of gestures to bring Christ’s love and hope to a young person who is hurting”.

Having Betty cross my path happened over 40 years ago. I’m sure she’s no longer with us, enjoying heaven now and celebrating the fruits of her labors and the powerful effects of her three small words “I love you.”

And, John? Only the Lord knows where he may be today. Hopefully, his ministry thrived and he helped fill up heaven a bit more because of a changed life that heard a call to become God’s servant behind a pulpit and in the communities he lived.

John had experienced a touch from the Master through a middle-aged woman who didn’t let her fear of failure stop her from trying to reach a quiet, sullen unhappy young man. John took his “I love you” and turned it into “Jesus loves you” with each sermon he wrote.

Our world is full of “Johns”. We need more “Bettys.” I’m thankful I met Betty and that I learned about John. Her testimony of simply speaking “love” into someone’s life helped me to focus on becoming an encouragement too, especially to those who appear lonely, sad, or not interested in “life”.

Betty’s story about John in Teen Challenge is true. Her love and passion for young people along with her ability to be kind in all situations helped inspire me years later when I began writing a weekly blog “The Art of Nyce”. I don’t recall exactly when, but my husband and I coined the phrase “how hard is it to be nice?” We came up with this question after witnessing how our own small gestures of kindness were received, especially in awkward or tense situations. So, Betty, “thank you”. Your example launched a young woman’s own desire to give kindness and not worry about the weight behind the measure of love carrying it along.

Assist other agencies:

Officer Fairbotham was requested to assist the LCSO Deputies with searching for a group of people at the Mobil gas station who were actively fighting. Officer Fairbotham arrived in the area and the suspects left prior to his arrival.

Officer Fairbotham was requested to assist in checking an address for a suspect who was wanted in questioning for an arson investigation in the City of Howell. The subject was not at the location, and Officer Fairbotham relayed the information on to the Howell Officer.

Officer Austin was requested to assist the LCSO Deputy with checking on a subject who was standing on the overpass to I-96 and appeared to be praying and possibly going to jump. Officer Austin arrived at the location and located the person and was able to talk to the person to go get evaluated at the hospital for depression.

Officer Homa was requested to assist the LCSO with a physical domestic in progress. Officer Homa assisted deputies with interviews and providing scene safety. Once the incident was under control Officer Homa then cleared.

Additional information:

Officers Pappas and Homa attended the annual Fall Fest event held at the Fowlerville Fairgrounds. This is a great family-friendly event and is always a must attend event for local families. The Fowlerville community is bustling with activity as we welcome the arrival of fall! With school back in session, fall sports underway, and a variety of fall events taking place at the Fowlerville Fairgrounds, there is plenty happening throughout our community for families, students, athletes, and visitors to enjoy. As everyone gets back into the routines and excitement of the season, we would like to remind everyone to slow down, stay alert, and watch out for one another. Drivers are encouraged to remain especially vigilant in school zones and residential areas, keeping a close eye out for students walking, biking, or crossing roadways, particularly during the morning and afternoon hours. Please remember that children may not always be predictable when near traffic, so give yourself plenty of time to stop and never assume a roadway is clear simply because you don't immediately see someone crossing.

We also want to remind all motorists to share the road and watch carefully for motorcycles. As motorcycle traffic continues throughout the fall season, take an extra moment to look twice before turning, changing lanes, entering an intersection, or pulling out into traffic. A second look can make all the difference. With so many activities happening around Fowlerville this time of year, let's all do our part to keep our roads, neighborhoods, schools, sporting events, and community gatherings safe and enjoyable for everyone.

From all of us at the Fowlerville Police Department, we wish everyone a safe, happy, and enjoyable fall season. Please slow down, stay alert, look twice, and help us make this a great season for the entire Fowlerville community!

Respectfully Submitted
John J. Tyler, Chief of Police

Sitting on the hay bales under the “Happy Fall” sign, were, from left, Ella, age 3; Ayre, age 5; and Adalynn, age 9.

Helen and Tee Rayment of Webberville brought their ‘Straight Arrow Chuckwagon’ to demonstrate how this predecessor to the modern-day food truck was used in the past. They even served some ‘bean chow’.

Jeremie Jack of Fowlerville, who owns Ember Lore, was selling his crafted candles with a natural hemp wick, along with organic coffee beans.

The Rayments brought a saddle along with the chuckwagon and offered kids a chance to sit on it. Morgan Hanna was doing so, while her sister Aver Hanna was waiting her turn.

Lots of ‘fun’ activities & historical lessons enjoyed at recent Fowlerville Fall Fest

It was a ‘beautiful day’ for the Fowlerville Fall Fest, held at the fairgrounds last Saturday, Sept. 12th. Most of the activities were located near the Livingston Centre Historical Village and, as part of the event, the buildings were open for attendees to visit, with docents and interpreters giving tours, while the blacksmith shop and other crafters offered demonstrations.

Kids enjoyed the bounce house, various games, face painting, and the always popular pumpkin painting. There was musical entertainment, 4-H animals, carriage rides, and an obstacle course to try. The local First Responders had a tug-of-war, there were a number of vendors present offering a wide assortment of crafts and other items for sale, plus there was food and beverages available for purchase.

Money raised from the event is used to maintain the buildings in the Village.

One of the musical entertainers during the afternoon was this father-son duo of Ben and Bob Broadbent of Howell.

Trying out the ‘Ring Toss’ were Oakley and Waylen Banks of Stockbridge.

These two cousins—Ariella Denby, left, and Allison Belanger—had a good time at the Fall Fest and were getting ready to head home.

Kinsley Bogg, age 9, enjoyed milking this cow. She's a third grader at Fowlerville.

Playing the 'Hammer Game' was Griffin Case, age 5, of Pinckney.

Having a fun time painting pumpkins was this Fowlerville family: Grandpa Ken Sienkiewicz in back, mom Andi Lane who was holding one-year-old Wyatt Lane, and three-year-old Marley Lane who was doing the painting.

Brandi Szura of Fowlerville, who is the proprietor of A & B Creations, had her beautiful wreaths and hand-crafted designs available for purchase.

Tammy O'Doherty was playing a game with her grandchildren: Gordon, age 6 (in back), and Jamison, age 5. The are from Fowlerville.

U.S. Senate Report

By Elissa Slotkin,
Michigan 119th

Statement on Voting 'No' on Clarity Act

U.S. Senator Elissa Slotkin (D-MI) released the following statement regarding her 'no' vote on proceeding on the Clarity Act, a large package regulating the crypto industry.

"I voted no on the Clarity Act, legislation meant to regulate cryptocurrency in America.

"The ethics provisions in this bill are simply too thin. President Trump, his children, and his Cabinet are making billions of dollars in the crypto space, in part from bilking everyday Americans out of their hard-earned money. I cannot in good conscience vote for any legislation that codifies that behavior from public officials. Not for President Trump or Secretary Lutnick today, nor for any Democrat who may take advantage of it in the future.

"On the national security front, there is more to be done to make sure we have the tools in place to stop money laundering and shut down funding avenues for terrorists and nations like North Korea and Iran. This was essential after 9/11 and remains essential to keep Americans safe.

"And as of now, our agencies, including the CFTC, lack the necessary oversight and staffing to implement this legislation, and that should be addressed.

"There are strong, bipartisan provisions in this bill that could serve as the foundation for a new attempt at providing the crypto industry with the guardrails it needs. I believe that the U.S. should lead the world in cryptocurrency innovation, but we need to get it right. I remain open-minded to that work ahead."

The produce of the week are beets and apples - and the food sample will be apple and beet muffins. Participants will receive Market tokens to spend on produce at the Market. Sign-up is onsite and it’s easy.

Mellow Market Music this Sunday starts at 10am with The Retro Radio Show with Paul Schneider on guitar and vocals, playing covers that have been hit songs going back in time as far as 100 years. His music will include country, country rock and some rock and roll. He describes each song, year of release, who the artist(s) were, and a little history, like a radio DJ. Then in the afternoon, enjoy the trio, No Drama, featuring Emily Feldpausch on vocals, accompanied by Steve Marquie and Paul Schneider, and they’ll be playing Americana, southern rock, and classic rock.

The Seedlings and Sprouts kids craft booth activity will be making a cheese box, to take home.

Visitors of any age are encouraged to check out the interactive art Creation Station booth, hosted during most Markets by local artist volunteer, Scott VanAllsburg, to channel their inner artist and create a Market Masterpiece with chalk on paper canvas to take home.

The Market accepts Bridge cards and provides double-up food bucks, so the buying power of shoppers using their EBT card is doubled when purchasing fruits and veggies.

Next week, on Sunday, September 27, it’s Veggie Day at the Market.

The Senior Power of Produce - POP Club wraps up next week. This program is about honoring those adults ages 55 and older who come to the Market, and highlights fresh produce that is in season, considers healthy ways to prepare the Market bounty and includes food sample tasting and sharing recipes. The produce of the week next week is butternut squash and the food sample will be roasted butternut squash soup. Participants will receive Market tokens to spend on produce at the Market. Sign-up is onsite and it’s easy.

Mellow Market Music next week starts at 10am with local artists who are first-timers at the Market but long-time residents, the duo Stan and Nancy Takis, playing American folk tunes, with Stan on guitar and vocals and Nancy playing the mountain dulcimer. In the afternoon, shop to the soulful vocals of SIXONESIXX, she’s a Zeeland, Michigan native, her band includes Joe Diamond on guitar, and Jae on piano. They play jazz, blues, and R&B, some original and covers, and they’re influenced by Amy Winehouse, Erykah Badu, Hayley Williams, Marvin Gaye, Janet Jackson, and Sade.

The Seedlings and Sprouts kids craft booth activity next week will have visitors plant paper root vegetables in the dirt to take home.

Don’t forget to bring the stash of Michigan-returnable bottles and cans from your garage to the Can Van which is onsite at every Market and a popular year-round fundraiser. Every dime adds up to support the expenses of the Market.

Two Holiday Markets are scheduled, both on Sundays, on November 22 and December 13 and both will be inside the Williamston Area Senior Center. More information about those Markets will come later.

For more information about Sowing Growth, the non-profit organization that operates the Williamston Farm and Artisan Market, to be added to the newsletter email list, to volunteer or to donate to the Market, contact Sowing Growth at: Info@SowingGrowth.org.

Letter to the Editor

After reading Evelyn Gallegos ‘Letter to the Editor’ in last week’s Fowlerville News & Views, September 13, 2026, I had to correct her first sentence that “Abdul El-Sayed is not a democratic socialist and does not intend to replace capitalism with socialism.” Michigan, don’t be fooled.

El-Sayed states “he is not a socialist, but is a capitalist who understands capitalism.” A clever statement designed to hide his true socialist intentions. What El-Sayed is saying, in code, is that he understands the structural exploitation and class struggle of the system. Michigan, don’t be fooled.

Look at the people who support and endorsed El-Sayed:

Bernie Sanders, Alexandra Ocasio-Cortez and Rashida Tlaib. All who align with the socialist agenda, including the 7th Congressional District Democratic candidate, who is an avowed socialist. El-Sayed refuses to disavow Hasan Piker’s statements that America deserved 911 is very telling. Piker understands that El-Sayed needs to put distance between them, but knows where he truly stands on the socialist agenda. Michigan, don’t be fooled.

El-Sayed has a long record of attending Democratic Socialist of America events and raising money for the organization. He has removed all his social posts and left-wing content to appeal to statewide voters. Michigan, don’t be fooled.

When El-Sayed states he wants to keep capitalism, but only wants to regulate it, sounds like Bernie Sanders who wants to reform capitalism and move toward socialism. The Socialists would flat out replace capitalism with socialism. How do you reform capitalism, you regulate it to achieve your socialist goals. It’s simple, El-Sayed statements that he only wants to regulate capitalism sounds like Bernie Sanders and the Socialists. Michigan, don’t be fooled.

Finally, Ms. Gallegos second sentence statement that as a junior senator El-Sayed will have no power is just incorrect. A United States Senator has a lot of power. Michigan, don’t be fooled.

Can you be buried on your own property in Michigan?

By Aaron Franks,
‘Aaron the Funeral Guy’

Now that I’ve wrapped up my Funeral Rites and Traditions Series, I thought we’d switch gears this week and answer a question that I recently received: Can you be buried on your own property in Michigan?

The short answer is “yes, under certain circumstances.” But before anyone starts picking out their favorite tree in the backyard, there is quite a bit more to consider than simply owning a piece of property and deciding that’s where you want to be buried.

Michigan has a law specifically addressing private family burial grounds. Under that law, a person who owns property that is outside the corporate limits of a city or village may lay out and survey a portion of that property as a private burial ground for their family or descendants. The burial ground cannot exceed one acre and is intended for the owner’s family and descendants, rather than as a cemetery where burial spaces are sold to the general public.

Michigan law also provides a process for formally establishing the burial ground. This may involve having the property surveyed, creating a deed to trustees, and recording the appropriate documents with the county where the property is located. In other words, this can be much more than simply choosing a spot in the backyard and digging a grave. You may actually be establishing a private family burial ground that could remain there for generations.

There are also requirements surrounding the actual death and burial that don’t disappear simply because the burial is taking place on private property. The death still needs to be properly registered, and the appropriate authorization for final disposition may still be required before burial takes place.

Then there are the local requirements, and this is where someone considering burial on private property really needs to do their homework. Depending on where the property is located, your township, county, zoning authority, or local health department may have additional requirements. These could include minimum distances from property lines, roads, neighboring homes, wells, septic systems, lakes, rivers, streams, wetlands, or other waterways. There may also be requirements concerning where on the property the burial ground can be located or how the land can be used. That doesn’t mean every township has all of those requirements. It means they are the types of things that may need to be considered depending on where you live.

So, if someone came into the funeral home and told me, “Aaron, when I die, I want my family to bury me on our property,” my advice would be to start looking into it now, rather than leaving the family to figure everything out after the death occurs. Just because it can be done, doesn’t mean that it’s always a quick process.

A good starting point would be contacting the township or local zoning authority to find out what may be required for that particular property. Depending on the circumstances, the local health department or county Register of Deeds may also need to be involved. An attorney familiar with real estate or land-use matters could also help determine what needs to be established and recorded.

There is another practical issue that deserves consideration: What happens to the burial ground if the property is eventually sold?

If a private family burial ground has been formally established and recorded, selling the surrounding property doesn’t necessarily mean the burial ground simply disappears. How the burial ground was established, how the property was deeded, and what was recorded can all become important.

That’s why families considering this should also think about the future. Who will maintain the burial ground? How will relatives access it if the surrounding property is eventually owned by someone outside the family? Who will be responsible for it after the people who originally established it are gone? Depending on how the burial ground is established, trustees may be involved in its long-term oversight. An attorney may also recommend establishing an easement or another legal means of ensuring future access if the surrounding property is eventually sold.

There also isn’t necessarily a cemetery company that’s going to show up and mow the grass, repair a marker, or maintain the property. With a private family burial ground, those responsibilities may remain with the family, trustees, or whoever has been designated to care for it.

If a private cemetery eventually becomes abandoned or seriously neglected, there are legal procedures in Michigan that may come into play. Depending on the circumstances, local government and the courts could become involved, and in some situations that process could eventually result in the cemetery being vacated and the remains being relocated. That’s certainly not something most people are thinking about when they say, “I want to be buried at home,” but it’s worth knowing before creating a burial place that could still be there many generations from now.

I can understand why someone would want to be buried on their own property. Maybe your family has owned a farm for generations. Maybe there is a piece of land where you raised your children, watched your grandchildren grow up, or simply spent the happiest years of your life. For some people, being buried there may feel far more meaningful than being buried in a cemetery they’ve never had any connection to.

Michigan does provide a way for private family burial grounds to be established. But if this is something that’s important to you, don’t leave your family with nothing more than the instruction, “Bury me under the old oak tree.” Start asking questions now.

Find out what may be permitted on your property, what your local government may require, and what steps may need to be taken to make sure your wishes can actually be carried out. Because being buried at home may be possible. It just takes more planning than picking the perfect spot.

Because local requirements can vary, anyone considering a private family burial ground should verify the requirements for their specific property before making plans.

Is there something about funerals, cremation, or funeral service you’ve always wondered about? Send me your questions or ideas at aaronthefuneralguy@gmail.com. You might just inspire a future article!

Food Assistance Program ends at Fowlerville Senior Center; lots of activities coming up

By Mark Thompson

The USDA Food Box Assistance Program is ending in September 2026. The Fowlerville Senior Center is exploring similar food assistance programs and when we have the program information we will forward it to everyone. In the meantime, the last USDA food box pickup was Friday, September 18 and Monday, September 21.

The Fowlerville Fire Department stops by once a month, on the second Monday of the month, to conduct blood pressure checks for Senior Center members. This time a couple of members had blood pressures which was a bit elevated. Fortunately, the Fowlerville Senior Center has a stand-alone blood pressure machine where our members can monitor themselves daily and if necessary, make arrangements with their medical provider. The blood pressure screening is open to the public at no charge so stop by and for a visit and make sure your heart is working.

The Fowlerville Senior Center has our Painting with Lori class, on Monday, September 21 from 12:00P – 1:00P. This class is a favorite of senior center members and our art instructor Lori Sullivan has always provided excellent art techniques instruction and provides demonstrations for students and individuals to assist with their painting projects. No prior art experience is necessary, just be prepared to have fun and maybe learn a few painting strokes. This class is free for Fowlerville Senior Center members.

On Tuesday, September 22 from 11:00A – 12:00P the Fowlerville Senior Center has our Crafting with Mary class. This is another favorite class of senior center members and our instructor Mary Hudson from the Fowlerville Library will be assisting class members in creating desktop post-it notes holders.

The Fowlerville Senior Center’s Membership Community Potluck Luncheon will be held on Thursday, September 24 starting at 11:00A with musical entertainment being provided by Rod Burkhart and his Fading World musical program. The luncheon theme is Italian, so the senior center will provide lasagna and garlic bread, and members are requested to provide an Italian-themed dish or dessert to pass. Our Community Luncheons are always a good time, and the food is good, too.

Trevor Fluke, of the Hearing Depot, stops by once a month and offers to check our members hearing and hearing aids. This service is very much appreciated by members of the Fowlerville Senior Center and is also offered to non-members at no cost. Trevor stops by on the third Thursday of the month from 10:30A – 11:30A.

The Fowlerville Senior Center had an unexpected visitor bearing gifts. Julianna Deaton made fresh sourdough bread and brought a couple of loaves by the senior center. Not to brag but the bread didn’t last very long—it was that good. Julianna is the wife of Grant Deaton, of Zeal Auto Detailing who has special vehicle cleaning rates for Fowlerville Senior Center members.

It’s fall so, “Don’t stop be leafing.”

When Forgiveness Feels Hard: Understanding Seventy Times Seven

By Jace Arledge

In Matthew 18:21–22, Jesus tells us to forgive not just seven times, but “seventy times seven.” That can sound like He is saying, “Ignore what happened and let it go.” Is that really what He means? Let’s break it down.

The Question Peter Asked

Peter asks Jesus, “Lord, how often will my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?” He probably thought seven was generous. Jesus replies, “Not seven times, but seventy times seven”—or, in some translations, “seventy-seven times” (Matthew 18:21–22).

Jesus was not giving Peter a new cutoff at 490. He was saying forgiveness should not come with a scoreboard. The wording may differ, but the point is the same: stop keeping count.

The Context Really Matters

Right before this, Jesus explains what to do when someone sins against you (Matthew 18:15–20): speak with the person privately, bring in wise help if needed, and involve the church if the issue remains unresolved. In other words, forgiveness does not mean pretending nothing happened. It means addressing the wrong honestly while still leaving room for mercy and reconciliation.

Forgiveness does not make wrong behavior okay, erase consequences, restore trust overnight, or require us to stay where we are being harmed. Repentance, real change, wise counsel, and healthy boundaries may still be needed. We can forgive and hold someone accountable. Jesus never asked us to be a doormat.

So, What Does Forgiveness Mean?

Forgiveness means letting go of revenge and trusting God with justice instead of letting bitterness control us. The hurt may not disappear, and we may need to choose forgiveness again when it returns. Healing takes time. Forgiving someone more than once does not mean allowing them to keep crossing our boundaries.

The parable of the unforgiving servant makes the point clear: a man receives enormous mercy but refuses to show mercy to someone else. The wrong done to us still matters, but because God has shown us mercy, we are called to show it too.

Here Is the Heart of It

“Seventy times seven” does not mean, “Ignore what happened.” It means, “Stop keeping score.” Forgiveness does not excuse the hurt or remove the need for boundaries—it keeps the hurt from owning us. We may not be able to change what happened, but we can choose what happens next. When we release revenge, we make room for healing, peace, and the same mercy God has so freely given us.

’Til next time,
Love unconditionally.

Michigan House Report

By State Rep.
Jason Woolford,
50th District

Remembering September 11: We Will Never Forget

Every year, September 11 gives us a reason to stop and remember.

Twenty-five years have now passed since the attacks of September 11, 2001, but the images, the stories, and the lives lost that day remain a part of our nation.
Nearly 3,000 innocent people went to work, boarded airplanes, reported for duty, or simply began what they believed would be an ordinary Tuesday morning and never came home.
Families lost husbands and wives, mothers and fathers, sons and daughters, brothers and sisters.
Our nation lost fellow Americans.

September 11 means many things to me, but above all, it is a reminder of the courage of ordinary Americans, the sacrifices made in defense of this country, and the responsibility we have to remember those who came before us.

When our nation was attacked, firefighters, police officers, paramedics, and other first responders did not run away from danger. They ran toward it.

They climbed stairwells while others were coming down. They entered buildings while others were trying desperately to escape. Many knew the danger they faced, but they went anyway because there was a job to do and lives were at stake.

That kind of courage is difficult to put into words.

We also remember the passengers and crew of Flight 93, ordinary Americans who learned what was happening and made the decision to fight back. They refused to sit by while terrorists carried out their plans. Their courage and sacrifice saved countless lives.

September 11 showed us the evil of those who sought to attack America.

But it also showed us the courage of Americans who refused to surrender in the face of it.

In the days that followed, our country made clear that we would not be intimidated.

We flew our flags. We honored our police officers, firefighters, service members, and first responders. Americans stepped forward to serve their country. And our nation made clear that those responsible for attacking the United States would be held accountable.

September 11 reminds us that our freedom and security cannot be taken for granted. There will always be those who wish to do this country harm, and America must always be prepared to defend itself.

That requires strength. It requires vigilance. And it requires men and women willing to answer the call when their country needs them.

For those of us who remember that day, we have another responsibility as well.

An entire generation of young Americans has now grown up without a memory of September 11, 2001. To them, 9/11 is something they learn about in a classroom or read about in a history book.

It is our responsibility to make sure they understand that September 11 is more than a date in a textbook.

They should know about the innocent Americans whose lives were taken. They should know about the firefighters who climbed those stairs. They should know about the police officers and first responders who rushed into danger. They should know about the passengers of Flight 93 who fought back.

And they should know about the men and women who answered the call to defend our country in the years that followed, including those who never made it home.

Their service and sacrifice deserve to be remembered. To me, that is what “Never Forget” means.

We remember those we lost, honor those who ran toward danger, those who fought back and those who put on the uniform and went overseas to defend this country.

And we make sure the next generation understands the price that has been paid for the safety and freedom of the United States of America.

Twenty-five years later, the passage of time makes that responsibility even more important.

We cannot allow September 11 to become simply another chapter in a history book.

We must remember what happened. We must remember who did it. We must remember the Americans who showed extraordinary courage that day. And we must remain committed to protecting this country from those who would threaten it.

May we remember the innocent lives taken too soon and honor the first responders who ran toward danger, the men and women who answered the call to defend our nation in the years that followed.

May we pray for the families who still feel the pain of that day and teach our children why September 11 matters, so that when we say “Never Forget,” those words continue to mean something for generations to come.

God bless those we lost, God bless those who serve, and God bless the United States of America.

As always, please reach out to me if you have any questions or input you would like to share. You can call my office at (517) 373-3906 or email me at JasonWoolford@House.MI.Gov.
